

Art Collet of San Luis Obispo, Calif., writes: "Your Journal, like fine wine, gets better with the years. Keep up the good work."

Dr. Sam Peavey of Louisville, Ky., writes: "We in Louisville are indeed grateful for the generous support you have given to the idea of a National Young Bird Show. Thanks for the excellent editorial recognition you gave us."

C. Harold Gibson, Williams Lake, B.C., Canada, writes: "I notice quite a difference in the APJ since the early sixties when I used to be a subscriber. There seems to be far more news items and interesting articles in the APJ now."

Brad Thompson of Hornick, Iowa, writes: "I am a junior fancier and I enjoy your magazine very much. I have but one minor complaint. I have been raising Lahores for a year and a half and I would like to see an article in the APJ. It would be very helpful."

J. Lippincott of Powell, Wyo., writes: "I am a breeder of the Birmingham Roller. The articles on Rollers appearing in the APJ are much appreciated and enjoyed by myself as well as a very large and growing group of Roller fanciers."

Claus W. Twisselmann of Frederica, Del., writes: "Your magazine is one of the finest to be read in the field of pigeons. I look forward to it every month with great anticipation. The knowledge derived from it is a must for every new, young fancier."

Francisco Sahagun, Chino, Calif., writes: "I would like to thank you for the fine job you're doing in keeping the Fancy together by publishing your magazine. Your paper is the only way the new fanciers can get acquainted with the Pigeon Fancy."

William McRae of Canoga Park, Calif., writes: "I suppose it's nothing new to you and your staff to be commended for outstanding efforts. It is of course the finest publication of its kind and binds the Fancy together in a most enjoyable manner."

George Moise, Winamac, Indiana, writes: "Here is my renewal for the APJ for another year. Sure don't want to be without it. There are a lot of good and interesting articles in it on pigeons all over the world. Don't know what the Pigeon Fancy would do without the APJ. Keep up the good work."

Raymond H. Smith, Toledo, Ohio, writes: "Keep up your good work for the pigeon breeders of the world. The photographs of the different breeds of pigeons are most interesting. They let the breeders know what champions look like and give them something to strive for. Thanks for your well-printed publication."

Patrick D. Stuart, Milford Square, Pa., writes: "Being spokesman for the members of the Tri-County All-Breeds Pigeon Club of Milford Square, Pa., wish to thank the APJ for this wonderful magazine. Without the APJ there would be few clubs throughout our country. In the world of the Pigeon Fancy this is truly a super magazine. Gentlemen, our hats are off to you."

Jim Reynolds, San Antonio, Texas, writes: "Just a note to let you know how much I appreciate your efforts to provide the fanciers with quality, updated, and interesting information on our hobby and love. With the energy crisis in the wind you may be our only link with the pigeon world other than local shows, so keep us informed as always."
